

Trevor W Robbins PhD FRS FMedSci

Trevor Robbins was appointed in 1997 as Professor of Cognitive Neuroscience and was elected to the Chair of Expt. Psychology (and HoD) at the University of Cambridge from October 2002. He is a Fellow of the British Psychological Society (BPS), the Academy of Medical Sciences, and the Royal Society (2005), which is the most prestigious of the U.K. science institutions. He has been President of the British Association for Psychopharmacology (1994-1996) and the European Behavioural Pharmacology Society (1992-1994), winning the latter Society's inaugural Distinguished Scientist Award in 2001. He was the F. Kavli Distinguished International Lecturer at the Society for Neuroscience meeting in 2005 and he gave the Staglin Mental Health Music Festival Keynote address in 2008. He was recently jointly given the prestigious Distinguished Scientific Achievement Award for 2011 by the American Psychological Association (with his colleague BJ Everitt) - only 4 other UK psychologists have won this award in the last 60 years. He has been a member of Medical Research Council (UK) and chaired the Neuroscience and Mental Health Board from 1996 until 1999. He is one of the most highly cited neuroscientists according to ISI, having published nearly 700 full papers or chapters, and co-edited five books including Neurobiology of Addiction; New Vistas (OUP) 2010 and Decision-making, Affect and Learning (OUP). Currently, he directs the MRC/Wellcome Trust-funded 'Behavioural and Clinical Neuroscience Institute', the mission of which is to enhance translation from basic to clinical neuroscience.
